

4,269 HOSPITALIZED AND 132 DEAD AFTER ANNUAL CINCINNATI BRICK-DROPPING FESTIVAL SPECIALISTS BELIEVE THAT EVIL SPIRITS ARE THE CUPLRIT

In other news: Seven children go missing after Chucklenuts the Clown sighting

*Bricks and Giggles Department

Writer: Gregory Manzana

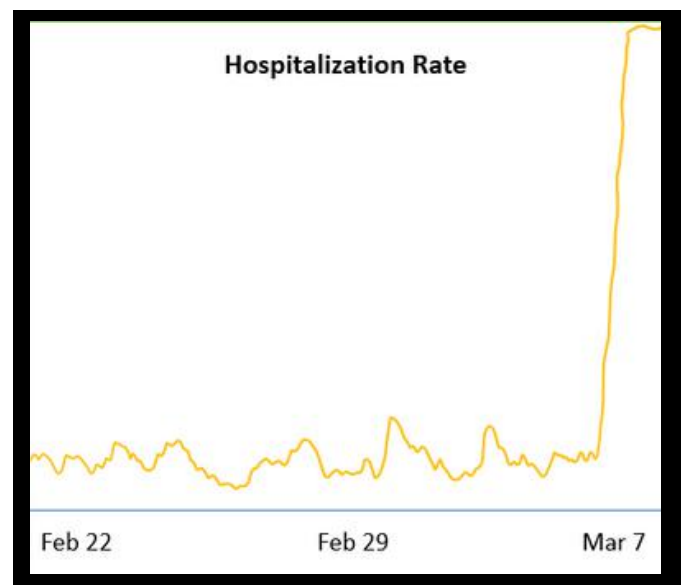

Hospitals pack with injured citizens once again after Cincinnati's annual Brick-Dropping Festival yesterday. Instead of hearing the majestic thump of bricks on asphalt, which the holiday is known for, the city heard the wail of ambulances and screaming. Many people suffered concussions, broken bones, and wounds, which nobody deserves on such a special day. Although there are a few absurd theories about the dropped bricks injuring people, scientists claim them to be false, and that the true cause is evil spirits trying to spoil the holiday.

“I DROPPED ONE BRICK AND NOW THE SIDEWALK IS COVERED IN BLOOD!”

Exclusive interview with Cincinnati mayor Aftab Pureval

- What are your thoughts on this?
- I think it is devastating.
- What do you think caused this all?
- It must be evil spirits.
- That concludes our interview.

HOWLER POPULATION EXPLODES- TICKLER CULT SPOTTED

*Tickler my fancy department

Writer: Niklaus Greer

There's nothing like that uncomfortable feeling when you watch

PONTIAC ROBOTICS ARCHIVE
Pontiac Robotics Season
Finale coming soon!

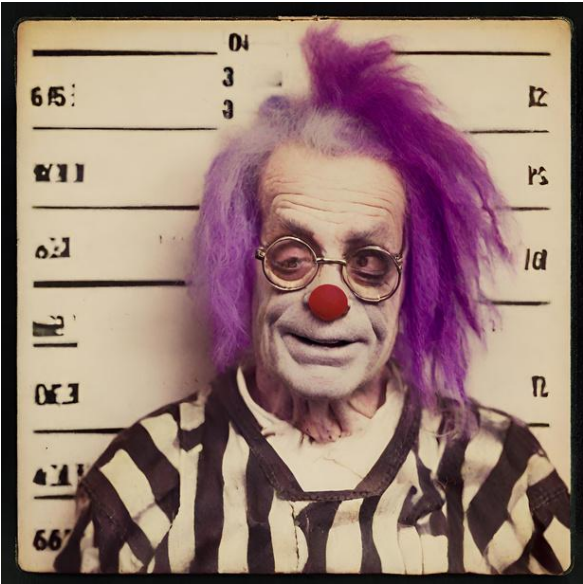

The species of Tickler called the "Howler" (Tickleous Clammatus) has seen a recent spike in population recently. Six of these ticklers were spotted on the highway in Colombus on Tuesday and the person who claimed to have seen the sight described them as "Standing in a tight circle, chanting and moving their heads up and down." This is peculiar behavior for the Howlers seeing as they are usually a quite reserved and self-sufficient species. Tickler specialists are looking into it. One biologist (A man on the street claiming to be one) said that the rise in population was due to a decrease of Howler-eating funguses commonly known as "Ticklocaine", as it usually drunkens the ticklers to the point of loosing their sense of reality.

7 CHILDREN MISSING AFTER CHUCKLENUTS SIGHTING

*Make sure that your windows' shut department

Writer: Watson Bingoton

Chucklenuts the clown (pictured on the right), has been a notorious convict around the northeast. He has been alive for nearly 106 years, and he still frequently takes parts in crimes ranging from stealing Bazooka Joe's bubble gum to mass murder. Recently, on Wednesday, a police report was filed for 7 children who have gone missing at similar times. The notorious Chucklenuts the clown was the main suspect, as he has a long history of kidnapping children. One of the children who was recovered claimed to use a flaming bowling pin as a weapon while Chucklenuts was attacking the child. This is proven by the bald spot on the upper-left area of Chucklenut's hair. Only 3 of the 7 missing children have been found.

Chucklenuts' Mugshot

5 SUPER ILLEGAL DRUGS THAT HAVE RISEN IN POPULARITY THAT SHOULD BE AVOIDED AT SOME COSTS

*Twit for a Hit department

Writer: Richard Richards

Illegal drugs are experiencing an exponential growth lately... Since the rumors of the laws being passed to ban the importing of babies in Ohio, people are getting antsy. What do they do in times of stress? Well, we do what we Ohioans do best! We all turn to hard drug as an answer. Even little children have been getting their fair share of exposure lately. Although it may be pretty fun, these drugs are very dangerous to the human (and nonhuman) bodies. Especially if overdosed. Anyways, these are 5 super illegal drugs that have risen in popularity!

1. T-berries

Testosterone berries, which were once regarded as a healthy snack to boost your energy, have lately been categorized as drugs due their addictive nature and their drastic effects on human IQ. Carrying T-berries can result in a fine of $2,000 throughout most regions of Ohio, and consuming them can result in a year in jail.

2. Birdseed

Birdseed is usually used among the Berdman community and is also commonly abused by them. Its addictive properties make it hard not to snort the stuff straight off the sidewalk when some old people are giving it away like bad advice! I digress.

3. Woodchips

This less once than common drug was first used by a man named Austin. He brought this generally unknown drug to the masses by dealing it in the boys' bathroom during ELD. It's a bit coarse and the drug is certainly an acquired taste.

4. Catnip

Catnip is extremely dangerous if overdosed. Cats of all kinds tend to indulge in the natural drug as it eases the mind and makes the feline feel fine. Other names for catnip include: 'Meowjuana', 'The Nip', 'Gato Ganga', 'The Purrfect Pinch', and 'Pussycat Pot'. If you hear any of these names floating around, call 420-420-4200.

5. Fun dip®

Fun dip® is the most dangerous drug that ever existed. Just 30 grams of the stuff is enough to kill a Carebara atoma ant*. If you have a slight suspicion that you or anyone you know is in possession of this dangerous drug, contact officials and do not take matters into your own hands. Vigilanty is the 69th most common cause of getting addicted!

*Depending on how you use it

Enough Fun dip® to kill a Carebara atoma ant

Dangerous amount of Gato Ganga